

I have been listening to Air1 radio station for a few years and recently found out it is on a FM translator. I also found out the FCC is introducing a new broadcast service Low Power Fm which might not find my station worthy to be on the air and knock it off. I am, along with thousands of other families very upset about this possibility. This local station is an alternative for the kids and adults to listen to instead of the current top 40 rock stations which blast our air waves with suggestions of violence and absenities. Air 1 is a Christian rock station which is a very positive place to turn to in this very hard and confussing world. Please do not let this happen. In this time in history most of us live in our cars, so we turn on the radio and listen. Please give Children and Adults alike a safe place to turn to and hear God's word and insperation. Thank you for reading this and I hoped you have listened. Jackie
